Stephen Bonder of blumshapiro Discusses Update of Wayfair Case on “Radio Entrepreneurs”

QUINCY, MA, ISSUED SEPTEMBER 3, 2019 – Stephen Bonder, industry partner leader – Private Client and Family Office Group at blumshapiro, the largest regional business advisory firm based in New England with offices in Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Rhode Island, recently appeared as a guest on “Radio Entrepreneurs.” Bonder was interviewed by the show’s host, Jeffrey Davis; they discussed the Supreme Court Wayfair decision that was recently passed.

Bonder recapped the history of the Wayfair decision and how it originated as a Supreme Court case. The new Supreme Court decision states that if a retailer has economic nexus in a state, they may be liable for the collection of sales tax in that state even if they do not have physical presence in the state, as long as they meet certain criteria, which depends on the state. Also, depending on the state you are located in, you may have to file income taxes in numerous other states. This tax is named after the Massachusetts company, Wayfair, that completes internet transactions across the country.

Radio Entrepreneurs shares the stories of entrepreneurs in the interest of giving more exposure to innovative and fast-moving companies while creating a knowledge pool for the enrichment of the entrepreneurial community around the world. The show is broadcast daily and the individuals in the interviews are entrepreneurs from various backgrounds. The conversation is their story: the story of who they are and how they became an entrepreneur.

“The Radio Entrepreneurs show was an outstanding opportunity to talk about the Supreme Court decision and educate people who don’t know much about it,” said Bonder. “Thanks to Jeff and his team for the great conversation and broadcast,” he added.
